Introduction

As the melting pot of many ethnic groups in Indonesia, Jakarta is unquestionably a very dynamic and lively city worth exploring. There's a juxtaposition of characters that you can witness at every corner. It's one of the most modern destinations in the country, yet still has its solid bits of culture.

As the capital city of Indonesia, Jakarta also serves as the gate of this heavenly archipelago. That's why it's possible to experience some bites of Indonesian culture here, especially the traditional cuisines. It's everywhere to find. From the humble food stalls to some sought-after restaurants, they have their take on preserving the delicious taste of the Indonesian spice blend. For you who wish to witness a comprehensive summary of Indonesian culture and architecture, you can experience them all in Taman Mini Indonesia Indah. Through the real size models of traditional houses from all across the archipelago, you will have a grasp of Indonesia's vibrant culture.

The most iconic landmark of this busy city is Monas. The name comes from an abbreviation of Monumen Nasional (The National Monument). You can also explore nearby attractions near Monas and have the real experience of the heart of Jakarta. Not to mention, it's a tourist-friendly area, and public transportations is generally easy to find.

After all, Jakarta is a city that embraces diversity where the door is always open for everyone who wants to experience the unique fusion of culture and modernity. Jakarta is a city that's always welcoming you.

ALWAYS WELCOMING YOU

CHAPTER ONE:

Admiring The City

Sightseeing Spots

Come for the eccentricities, stay for the heartwarming familiarity.

Just like any capital city, Jakarta is a complex beauty with a thousand landscapes. From the colonial charm of the Old Town district, to the hip scene of Senopati, to the glitzy SCBD, this city has something for everyone. If you could think about it, you could see it in Jakarta - and see you, it will.

For those looking to feel metropolitan vibes and scenery of the capital city, exploring South Jakarta is perfect for your sightseeing itinerary. In need of a break from the city? The Northern area of Jakarta offers a coastal vibe that's different from the capital's heart. Just looking for a green space to relax? Jakarta has well-kept parks spread across the city.

Shall we start?

Ancol Beach

A coastal lowland area located to the east of Jakarta's Old Town area, modern-day Ancol contains the main beach resort of Jakarta. A popular destination for those looking for family-friendly activities for the weekends, Ancol beach offers a beautiful coastal view and a great alternative from the capital city's hustle and bustle. Ancol can be reached by private car or motorbike, even public transportation such as Transjakarta. Visitors to the Ancol area can enjoy several attraction sites, including the Ancol Art Market, where you can browse for paintings, sculptures, and various handcrafted goods. Food stalls are also available in front of the market. Carnival and Lagoon beach are famous for their end of the year events, where fireworks show and live music performances are held on new year's eve annually.

Como Park Kemang

Keeping in mind how limited the option of dog-friendly spots for Jakarta's city dwellers, Como Park Kemang feels like a godsent destination for pet owners, especially those without the luxury of having their own yard big enough for a four-legged friend. Come for the puppies, stay for the munchies. Strategically placed in Kemang, of all places, Como Park offers not merely a grassy playground for dogs, but also a hip spot where their owners can relax with a cup of coffee, grab a quick bite at cafes, and even (ahem) get the chance to approach fellow dog-lovers under the pretense of discussing the differences between Shiba and Akita Inus. Como Park is always crowded and busy, notably during the weekend; go before their peak hours to play comfortably with your long-snouted friend.

Dunia Fantasi Theme Park

It's huge. It's fantastic. It's fun for the whole family. It costs around Rp 200.000 for one person admission. It's Dunia Fantasi Theme Park! More famously known as Dufan, this theme park was opened for the first time to the public on August 29, 1985, and ever since then, it has successfully entertained generations of Indonesians with its whimsical rides and iconic theme song. From the cute-meets-uncanny valley Istana Boneka to the thrilling Halilintar, Dufan is one place for all. Make sure you get there in the morning to have more time exploring and get on the rides because this is the place where you'd want to spend as much time as humanely possible. Bring extra clothes and your favorite hat to cover yourself from the sun and unnecessary worries!

Hutan Kota GBK

Living and carrying out daily activities in Jakarta will drive even the biggest homebodies to seek out green, open spaces. Enter the Hutan Kota GBK (or GBK City Forest, for those who don't speak the language). The presence of this lush city park in the middle of Jakarta is a relief for those who crave cool, fresh air and a break from close contacts with fellow city dwellers. Formerly a golf driving-range field, this city forest is located in the GBK with an area of 4 hectares. Deliberately built as a green open space, Hutan Kota is meant to be the "lungs" of the city, and conservation land. Apart from the woodsy atmosphere, there are also 10 facility points, including commercial kiosks, an amphitheater garden, Trembesi pool, coffee house, and the main plaza.

Jakarta Aquarium

The largest indoor aquarium in Indonesia, Jakarta Aquarium is a collaboration between the iconic Taman Safari Indonesia and Aquaria KLCC, Malaysia. In about a hectare conservation area, this place has aquatic and non-aquatic animals with more than 3500 species. Strategically located in Neo Soho Mall, this aquarium is truly a spectacle to behold; a magical and enchanting atmosphere engulfs you as soon as you step inside. Feel the cool air and notice the glittering water reflections on its dark blue, high-ceiling walls. Every little interaction that you experience with the animals feels intimate and sacred; before you know it, you are already enthralled in their deep blue, underwater haven. Every ocean creature has a story to tell, and you will find it in Jakarta Aquarium. Don't hesitate. Dive deep.

Jakarta Planetarium

A part of the Taman Ismail Marzuki art and science complex, the Jakarta Planetarium and Observatory is the oldest of the three planetaria in Indonesia. Located in the Central Jakarta area, precisely at Jalan Cikini Raya No. 73, this place was built in 1964 by the first President Soekarno and now serves as media for Astronomical information and education for the masses. There several facilities here, including the Star Theater show, where visitors will be able to learn about our solar system and the universe. There are also the Observatory, equipped with a Cloude telescope, and Exhibition Hall, where a sky simulation and dioramas to show Astronomy films are held to provide education about our celestial bodies. The Jakarta Planetarium is open on Tuesday until Sunday, from 08:00 - 15:00 WIB.

Kalijodo Park

Located in the middle of two administrative cities - namely West Jakarta and North Jakarta - Kalijodo Park boasts a 1.4 hectares area, equipped with various facilities including a park, monument, jogging, and bicycle track, skate park, amphitheater, kiosks, public toilets, and a prayer room. Built with the concept of a semi-natural green park in mind, Kalijodo park also contains a child-friendly integrated public space, serving as a home to young families with children. Its skate park was built to meet the international standards, readying the park to hold skate events. The amphitheater is surrounded by a 23-meter wall adorned by murals and graffiti done by famous Indonesian artists. One of the several existing family-friendly integrated public spaces in Jakarta, Kalijodo can be the answer for your weekend getaway.

Kota Tua / Old Town

Jakarta's Old Town, officially known as Kota Tua, is a neighborhood comprising the original downtown area of the capital city. Kota Tua contains Dutch-style structures, mostly dated from the 17th century when the port city served as the Asian headquarter of VOC during the heyday of the spice trade. Famous attractions in this area include the Fatahillah museum, which keeps collections of historical items and has an underground prison. The Sunda Kelapa harbor, which still operates, is an attractive photo spot for those looking for a different vibe in the Old Town. There are also the majestic Bank Indonesia museum, the enchanting Wayang Museum, the iconic Toko Merah, and Taman Fatahillah, where you can ride bikes around and people-watch. M Bloc Space

Previously the official residence of the Public Company for Money-Printing of Indonesia (Perum Peruri), this 7000 square meters area has been renovated and repurposed into a new creative hub to accommodate the needs of the creative urban youth of Jakarta. Entering the front area of M Bloc, the outdoor-concept building functions as a gathering point, notably for public discussions, where exciting murals adorn the walls. The interior of M Bloc gives off a more intimate vibe, with cleverly placed lightings and accents here and there. Various cafes and restaurants can be found here; you can get your caffeine fix and immediately go see a music show the next moment. There are also stores offering products by local designers, and music and book corners for those looking for an addition to their collection.

Macan Island

Macan Island, also known locally as Pulau Macan, is famous for its romantic vibes and gentle sunset view - it's no wonder that this island attracts those looking for a honeymoon getaway. Crystal clear water and lush trees will greet you as soon as you arrive, with unique huts that are positioned strategically for the best oceanic scenery. Plunge into the inviting turquoise depths just a few steps from your comfy bed, and lose yourself in this heaven on earth. Your secluded private island, away from civilization; when you are here, you will find all of your worries and racing thoughts gone. What remains is a feeling of peacefulness, with the gentle sea breeze whispering sweetly in the background. Come, dive in. The water is fine.

Monumen Nasional

Monumen Nasional, also known locally as Monas, is a 132-meter tall obelisk in the center of Merdeka Square, Central Jakarta. It was built to commemorate the struggle for Indonesian independence, symbolizing the fight for Indonesia. Monas was opened to the public in 1975. It is topped by a flame covered with gold foil. It is the icon of Jakarta; the monument is always crowded with tourists, specifically because you can see the beauty of Jakarta from the top floor of Monas. Inside, you could learn about Indonesian history in the diorama room inside the National Museum at the bottom of the monument, or if you prefer the great outdoors, you could enjoy the lush urban forest of 80 hectares, formerly known as Gambir field, that surrounds the monument.

Petak Sembilan Market

Jakarta's very own Chinatown district, Petak Sembilan market is located on Jalan Kemenangan Raya, Glodok. It is said that Petak Sembilan is called so because back in the old days there were only nine house plots standing there. The former Chinese style buildings are no longer visible in the area because all of the buildings there have been rebuilt recently. Walking down the market street, you could see shops selling lanterns, incense sticks, Cheongsams, and basket cakes. There are also Buddhist and Hindu temples located here. Petak Sembilan is also known as a legendary culinary paradise; from Bakmi Ayam to Fried Meatballs, there are tons of delicious food stalls waiting for you there. With its authentic vibe, it's no wonder that Petak Sembilan is always busy and crowded.

Pondok Indah Golf Course

What comes to mind when you hear the words "Golf Course"? Beautiful mountain views, a secluded place with an emerald green landscape? Not quite the case with this particular golf course. Designed by Robert Trent Jones Jr, this golf course was built with a layout for major championships (World Cup event) but capable of offering pleasure and a fair test for both pro and beginners. Located precisely on Jalan Metro Pondok Indah, South Jakarta, the Pondok Indah Golf Course offers you the experience of playing golf on an international standard course with lush, manicured grass. Interesting building architecture that is in harmony with nature is the theme of the Pondok Indah Golf Course - enjoy the fresh air and green scenery in the middle of an urban area.

Ragunan Zoo

Located in Pasar Minggu, South Jakarta, Ragunan Zoo is easily accessible through the Jakarta Outer Ring Road. Opened officially in the year 1864, Ragunan Zoo is more than 156 years old, making it the oldest zoo in Indonesia. The zoo has a land area of 140-hectare, and has an aviary and a primate center - many of the animals here are from the endangered and threatened species from all parts of Indonesia, and the rest of the world. Laid out in a lush tropical setting, rare animals such as crocodile, gorilla, orangutan, tapir, and Sumatran tiger are given ample room. Known as a family-outing place, special attractions for children are included here such as Children's Zoo, playground, and the Sunday events of pony cart and boat rides on Ragunan lake.

Sunda Kelapa Harbour

Sunda Kelapa harbour is the old port of Jakarta located on the estuarine of Ciliwung river. "Sunda Kalapa" is the original name, and it was the main port of the Sunda Kingdom. The port is situated in Penjaringan sub-district. Today, the old port only accommodates Phinisi - a traditional two-masted wooden sailing ship - serving inter-island freight service in the archipelago. Although it is now only a minor port, Jakarta has its origins in Sunda Kelapa, and it played a significant role in the city's development. This place is famous as a photo spot, as the olden vibes and the Phinisi ships are beyond photogenic. For those who want a nice place to sit down, unwind and watch the world go by, Sunda Kelapa Harbour is welcoming you with open arms.

Taman Lapangan Banteng

Formerly named Waterlooplein Square, Lapangan Banteng is a historic square located in a historic area formerly known as Welltevreden - now known as Sawah Besar subdistrict - Central Jakarta, Indonesia. Roughly measuring 5.2-hectare field, this field was used as a military training area during the era of VOC Governor Herman William Daendels. Today the West Irian Liberation Monument column stands tall in the center of the square. Physical activities such as jogging, cycling and basketball are just some of the fun exercises that you can do here. Not the sporty kind? At nightfall, Lapangan Banteng comes alive with its Dancing Fountain; watch the colourful lightworks move hypnotically with the flow of the water. Taking a stroll around the lake is also good if you want to unwind and relax in the afternoon.

Taman Mini Indonesia Indah

Taman Mini Indonesia Indah, also locally known as TMII, is a culture-based recreational area located in East Jakarta. With an area of about 100-hectares, this park is a "synopsis" of Indonesian culture, with virtually all aspects of daily life in Indonesia's provinces encapsulated in separate pavilions, with the collections of "rumah adat" as the example of Indonesian vernacular architecture, clothing, dances and traditions are all depicted impeccably. There is also a lake with a miniature archipelago in the middle of it, cable cars, museums, Keong Emas IMAX cinema, Teater Tanah Airku, and other recreational facilities which make TMII one of the most popular tourist destinations in the city. Not only fun, but TMII is also educational; making it the best destination for family outings and weekend plans. Make sure to wear sensible shoes because this park is huge.

Taman Wisata Alam Mangrove is a wetland ecosystem dominated by mangrove trees. This 99.82-hectare green paradise is located in North Jakarta, just the opposite side of the elite neighborhood Pantai Indah Kapuk. It's easily accessible by public transportation. One of the rare conservation areas in Jakarta, Taman Wisata Alam Mangrove functions both as a tourist attraction and as a habitat and shelter for several types of wildlife. Not only that, this mangrove forest is also able to absorb large waves including tsunamis and can absorb 5 times more carbon dioxide than tropical forests in the highlands. You can rent speed boats, plant mangrove trees, ride canoes and water bikes, bird-watch (there are protected species that live here), and enjoy the calming environment while appreciating its rare beauty.

Tidung Island

Located relatively close to the capital city of Jakarta, Tidung island offers secluded beaches, starry nights and an amiable community. The island actually consists of two islands - Tidung Besar and Tidung Kecil islands. The slim width of the land gives Tidung an interestingly unique shape. A sliver of an island, split by a single, small road with nothing to your left or right but beautiful stretches of sandy, white beaches and clear blue waters surrounding the entire coast of the island. The island is not as developed as some of the other islands in the district, meaning it is less commercial. Tourism on Tidung prides itself in being community-based, and is operated by the locals.

Museum Art Gallery

Being the capital city, Jakarta is a melting pot of thousands of ethnicities and various cultures, resulting in eclectic and exciting art influences. Different artists from different backgrounds come together and create art in forms that have never seen before. You'll see that here, murals and graffiti are no longer viewed as taboo, instead they're embraced and elevated into something more.

Jakarta's rich and extensive history plays a part in this too, as there are hundreds of museums spread across the city, each telling a different story of the past and present. From ancient artefacts to modern art left to one's own interpretations, there is certainly no shortage of museums and art galleries in the city, showcasing memories of a distant past, preserved forever for the people to witness and reflect on.

Art:1 New Museum

Art:1 (formerly known as Mon Decor Gallery) was established in 1983, and is the pioneer art gallery business in Jakarta. During its 30 years in the art business, Art:1 had expanded into several gallery branches all over Jakarta. Many of Art:1's reputable collections include Indonesian Old Masters, Indo Euro, Modern masters, and Indonesian contemporary collections. The spacious 4,000sqm building not only showcases collections of original artworks, but also offers products and services dedicated to art, art developments and activities for Indonesian art students, art audience and art market. This includes arranging exhibitions by emerging contemporary artists, and holding semi-formal educational programs which include art seminars, discussion, workshop and art appreciation. Dia.Lo.Gue. Artspace

Located on Jalan Kemang Selatan 99 A, South Jakarta, Dia.Lo.Gue is an artspace that was built for the public. The philosophy behind Dia.Lo.gue is "to provide a space where a genuine creative dialogue could spark between artists, designers, and the general public.". This ethos is reflected in its name, which translates in local Betawi language as 'He/She - You - Me', and also in their logogram. Dia.Lo.Gue embraces all forms of media, an approach that purposely reflects the blurring lines between art, design and life - a dialogue that takes place everyday in our lives. By showcasing interesting ideas and creations in this field, Dia.Lo.Gue hopes to raise the consciousness of art and design within society at large, as well as stimulating new works.

Museum Bank Indonesia

The Bank Indonesia Museum was founded by Bank Indonesia, and first opened on 21 July 2009. The museum is housed in a heritage building in Jakarta's Old Town that had been the first headquarters of the Netherlands Indies gulden (De Javasche bank), the central bank of the Dutch East Indies. The bank was nationalized as Bank Indonesia in 1953, after Indonesia gained its independence. It is located next to the Bank Mandiri Museum. It is designed to introduce the public to Bank Indonesia's role in the country's history, such as monetary policies and payment systems. It also provides visitors with an audio and visual experience on currencies and trade in Indonesia from the pre-colonial era to the present state. The museum is closed on Mondays, and has an entrance fee of Rp 5,000.00.

Tanah Abang is also strategic in location. Only a short drive from Bundaran HI's MRT Station, you can walk to the market from there in under 5 minutes.

Coworking Space

What's synonymous with Jakarta? Financial and business hub of Indonesia. Traffic jams. Ondel-ondel. Monas? Let's try that again - Skyscrapers. Diversity. People. With millions moving to the city looking for job opportunities and better luck, you'll quickly realize that Jakartans are hard-working people.

In these modern times, mobility is a must; which means you will see hundreds of people typing away on their laptops or preoccupied with conference calls on their gadgets. This is where coworking spaces come in. What better way to raise productivity through the roof than providing comfortable, high-tech places where you can work efficiently and ergonomically?

From a millennial-vibed, eccentric coworking space to a straightforward, no nonsense office, in Jakarta rest assured you won't have to trade productivity for leisure, actually, they are not mutually exclusive. So next time the receptionist asks for your reason to visit, don't say either business or pleasure - why not both?

CHAPTER TWO:

Tastes Across The City

*Pedestrian bridge with skyscrapers
at night time in Jakarta*

Caffeine Stops

Now onto the next activity – but first, coffee. As the fourth-largest producer of coffee in the world, Indonesia is a place of fascinating coffee variations. No better place to start your wonderful journey than Jakarta, a city of a thousand cafes.

Like mushrooms in the rainy season, a new cafe sprouts every day in the city. Here, you will never run out of cafes to try even until the heat death of the universe - hyperbolic, but that's just how much Jakartans love coffee. Even the jokes and pick-up lines are coffee-related.

Itching to get your caffeine fix? Seeing red from withdrawal symptoms? From creamy Frappes to wow-that's-bitter Americanos, even the pickiest and most condescending coffee enthusiast will find something to love in the city. You just need to know where to go. So move your eyes down a few inches more and read up on Jakarta's best cafes.

Cilandak, South Jakarta 12410

Instagram:
tokokopituku

Let us guide you there!

Tuku is taken from the Javanese language which means “to buy”. One must admire TUKU for establishing a rather unheard-of twenty-four-hour coffee shop. They are the pioneers of today’s well-loved Es Kopi Susu phenomenon, after all. Their Es Kopi Susu Tetangga, the drink that concocts coffee with creamer and palm sugar, has since become a staple beverage for the coffee-laden Jakartans. At any day of the week, you’ll see commuters making their quick stop for a cuppa, and the rounds of food couriers checking in on their smartphones for their online orders.

With a reserved atmosphere, a hidden entrance, and exclusive seating, A/A Bar is where mystery meets pleasure. Using a heavy amount of herbs, spices, fruits and flowers, A/A Bar offers a truly one-of-a kind drinking experience where each drink exudes a distinctive mystery and class of a hidden establishment.

BART Jakarta

Open Daily 5 p.m. - 1 a.m.

Address:
Jl. Sunda No.3, Gondangdia, South Jakarta 10350

Instagram:
bart_jkt

Let us guide you there!

BART (stands for Bar At the Roof Top, very meta indeed) is perched on the seventh floor of Artotel. The interior is a smooth execution of a monochromatic "uptown chicness". When the evening comes, stars are giving in to the city lights as they cast an inconsistent glow on the green foliage that embellish the place. The menu offers a diverse option of drinks, while the food is a fusion of Western and Asian. Have your drink in the open air, on the rooftop... Now you can laugh at the traffic jam from afar with a cocktail(s) in your hand.

Billions

Open Daily 4 p.m. - 2 a.m.

Address:

Open Mon - Sat, 4 p.m. – 12 a.m.

Address:
Jl. Kemang Raya No.8B,
Bangka, South Jakarta 12730

Instagram:
dingdongdisko

Let us guide you there!

This club is nestled right above Aksara and unapologetically throws you back to the good old times of the 70s. It reminisces over the space age era with clean-cut futuristic silhouettes that are old-school, yet it's all tied up to today's aesthetic preferences by limiting their main palette to monochromatic orange. Add the built-in bulky TV screens, neon lights, rounded shapes all throughout the place and it won't be hard to feel the funk. You're more than welcome to dive in their intriguing specialty cocktails that are yet another ode to space and time odysseys.

Duckdown Gunawarman

Open Tue - Sun, 4 p.m. – 12 a.m.

Address:
Jl. Gunawarman No.61, Kebayoran
Baru, South Jakarta 12180

Instagram:
duckdownjkt

Let us guide you there!

While others are devoting themselves to RnB, electronic dance and house music, Duck Down Bar collides rock 'n' roll and good vibes like no other does these days. Giving you the nostalgic feeling, a reminder of some local college bars people used to go during their heyday. This American dive bar-inspired establishment first opened in 2018. Housed in an underground basement, the lousy interior and the audacious posters covering the wall gives another surprise to the out-of-sight establishment. Enjoy your drinks and nod your head over 90s music with a lively atmosphere.

Inspired by the music theory term Coda, which means the tail of a musical piece so powerful it draws the audience into a standing ovation, this bar in Sudirman offers you an eloquent night with masterfully handcrafted cocktails. This speakeasy bar with flairs to flaunt boasts a dark yet gallant decor. Their mixologist and head bartender Yutaka Nakashima is ready to serve you bespoke cocktails. Aptly named, Koda offers a place to end the night on a harmoniously high note for patrons who fancy the gallantry of crafted cocktails and laidback after-work drinks to relax a long day.

This bar-slash-nightclub on Senopati Street is Pleasure's first solid venture in Jakarta's nightlife business. There's a permanent exhibition space at the entrance, where Pleasure invites creatives to showcase their talents in music, fashion and art. The bar serves all sorts of liquors by the bottle and glass. Clean and polished on the façade, Zodiac is contrastingly erratic inside the walls as the night dawns on the city, but in their own right, Zodiac made it work to their perk. Experience this establishment, dedicated for the cool kids, made by the cool kids. Are you ready for a wild night?

Eatery

What do you need to ensure you finish your shopping and travel list when you are visiting Jakarta? Money? Will power? Almost there... Yes! Energy. You certainly cannot walk from Blok M market to Plaza Indonesia (or stand around on a train) if you are not eating enough. And you certainly cannot eat enough if the food doesn't taste good.

Well, have we got good news for you. Jakarta is known for being the hub of all the existing food across the archipelago. Not just traditional, exotic food, we also have international cuisines made by top, Michelin-approved chefs.

Feeling excited yet? Or are you getting paralyzed by the unlimited options to choose from? Think of this as another set of good news; we have compiled all of the best places to eat from just for you! From Chinese to Italian, from porridge to dry-aged steak, you got it. Thank us later.

Let us guide you there!

Demie is a straightforward joint that leaves aside the unnecessary banter and offers bakmie just the way you love them. Between the Mie Keriting and the thicker Mie Karet, both are al dente noodles with a firm bite. Hence, what you pick is entirely up to your preference. The joint takes inspiration from ramen stalls but up-cycles the traditional look by opting for hard concrete and a modern blue-hued palette. As a trendy hangout spot, Demie surely breathes easily into Pelaspas' scene where youngsters gather day-in and day-out. Without any hesitation, it's indeed a welcomed addition to your noodle place options.

What's so special about this curry? This solo gulai, which has been sold since 1983, has a distinctive beef curry flavor with fragrant spices. You don't need to spend a lot of money to enjoy this delicious rice plus curry because for only 8,000 IDR to 10,000 IDR you can get a serving of warm rice, curry soup, sliced beef and offal and a sprinkling of shallots and soy sauce, but make no mistake, once you taste it, even one serving won't be enough because besides being delicious, the taste is savory enough without being too much.

Speaking of Sate, there is another variety of this meat skewer dish that is unique from your usual Peanut-sauce Sate. The name is Sate Taichan Senayan, and it's situated near the glitzy Senayan City shopping center. Don't be intimidated by the size of their customers, who come in waves and sit "Lesehan"-style on the ground. The taste of this dish is lovely enough to make you forget about the hundreds of people surrounding you on a humid summer night. Light, zesty yet savory enough to let the meat shine through, one portion is not enough. We warned you!

Jakarta. The capital city of the Republic of Indonesia, a huge, sprawling metropolis, home to over 10 million people with diverse ethnic group backgrounds from all over the green archipelago. Located on the northwest of Java Island, the city has rapidly expanded through the years - drive down a wide avenue decorated with skyscrapers one minute, and you'll suddenly find yourself squeezed into a small street with food carts and motorbikes. Ride a bike around the Old Town, then enjoy a fine-dining experience in the SCBD the next hour. With its many faces, Jakarta is a dynamic city with extensive history, containing hundreds of moments. Just like a flower in full bloom, each petal tells a beautiful story - all you have to do is seek, and Jakarta will open itself to you. Welcome home.
